

TIMES PICTURE PAGE OF LIVE VIEWS AND NEWS

RETURNING TO WASHINGTON on his vacation, Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France, will hold important conferences with President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes. —Harris & Ewing.

GOING FOR A LIVING, Countess Zichy, prominent New York society girl who eloped with the count the day previous to her scheduled marriage to George Burton, is said to be most unhappy. —International.

A STORE AT YOUR DOOR makes the marketing very simple and George Dellinger, the Washingtonian who invented the idea of moving grocery establishments to the door of housewives, is prospering.

PICKING FLOWERS FROM THE SNOW. It isn't everyone that can do it in July, but Miss Alice Jackson, of Canyon Camp in Yellowstone Park, is gathering blossoms every day on the high slopes of Mount Washburn, where she is spending her vacation during the golden anniversary of this wonderful national park. —Underwood.

EVERY BOY LIKES TO SAIL A KITE and it is the proud boast of William Turner, of 3831 Thirteenth street northwest, that no boy in his neighborhood has ever flown a kite higher than he has. —Times Staff Photographer.

HE STUDIES earthquake tremors and meteorological phenomena, and W. J. Humphreys, seismological expert at the Washington Weather Bureau, finds it quite fascinating. —Underwood.

REFUSING TO CO-OPERATE with the Federal Government in reopening the mines, Gov. C. D. Morrison of North Carolina said the Government should keep hands off in labor disputes. —Underwood.

A NEW POLITICAL TRICK has been tried on Clyde W. Carter, who wants to come to Washington to represent Brooklyn in Congress. Under the law in New York a candidate who changes his address between the time he announces himself and the date of election must have his name stricken from the ballot. Carter charges in court that his opponents have influenced his landlady to oust him from his apartment. —P. and A.

THIS IS A NEW AND DIFFERENT VIEW of the skyline in New York city, with an airship in the foreground. The photograph was taken by a cameraman in an aeroplane which flew very low and near the one which is shown in this picture. Practically all of the downtown skyscrapers and some of the North river piers are shown here. —International.

NOBODY CAN GET HER GOAT because Ruth Smith, of Hyattsville, Md., is proud of "Boobe," which she won in a tournament and she "wouldn't sell Nanny for the world." Her appearance on F street with the goat attracted a great deal of attention yesterday. —Times Staff Photographer.

SHE SAYS she is going to marry Prince Oleg Rodimir, of Italy, but he insists, in fact, he vehemently protests, that Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein is all wrong and that he will remain a bachelor. —P. and A.

NOMINATED as candidate for the United States Senate to represent Nebraska, R. B. Howell is quite confident of election, but he will know more about it in November.

WASHINGTON'S CONEY ISLAND, otherwise known as Chesapeake Beach, is the mecca for men, women and children who yearn for salt water bathing and all the delights a seashore resort offers. Some very daring feminine bathing suits are seen at this beach on Sundays. —Times Staff Photographer.

WAS HE A BRITISH EARL? Brooklyn, N. Y., police believe Edward Easton, who died in an attic room, was a British nobleman long estranged from his family. —P. and A.

BACK AT THE FRUIT STAND, former Mayor George L. Oles, of Youngstown, Ohio, says he would rather be out of office than to be an executive hampered by a lot of restrictions which handicapped him. —Underwood.

See the News of the World

AT ALL LEADING THEATERS SHOWING

INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Released by Universal Film Exchanges